

Yellow warning Rain

Between
22:00 Tue 26 Nov 2024 and
12:00 Wed 27 Nov 2024

Rain soon clearing the far southeast, with some ongoing low-level travel disruption likely before easing this afternoon.

What to expect

- Bus and train services probably affected with journey times taking longer
- Spray and flooding on roads probably making journey times longer
- Some interruption to power supplies and other services likely

Further details

Rain is now clearing the far southeast of the UK, with a few heavy bursts possible before clearing completely by this afternoon. Some ongoing low-level impacts are likely over the next couple of hours. A further 5-8mm is likely in a few places within the warning area, on top of the 20-40mm which fell overnight, before clearing this afternoon.

Some disruption, particularly to travel, has been reported overnight and this morning, and will likely continue for a little while although new impacts from rainfall are unlikely.

 Medium likelihood of low impacts

What should I do?

Check if your property could be at risk of flooding. If so, consider preparing a flood plan and an emergency flood kit.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for update

Updated to reflect the clearance of the rain from the majority of the previous warning area, whilst acknowledging some ongoing low impacts from overnight rain too.
